Course Description
This course is an introduction to the academic study of religion and a survey of different understandings of the “sacred” seen in the American South. The main theme of “searching for the sacred and the strange” takes us away from mainstream Christianity to examine the religiosity and aesthetic expression of socially marginalized individuals, whose visionary experiences inspire their creation of religious art, music, and food. We begin by reading the studies of a few “Road Scholars” who interpret unusual forms of religiosity manifest in art and song while they undertake a common American ritual: the road trip. On their journeys they encounter religion on the margins of the South, yet they find themes that are central to American religious life: the desire to recreate sacred time and space, and creativity as religious devotion. Then we move to New Orleans, the birthplace of jazz, where we will examine the relationship between African religions, voodoo, jazz funerals, and Mardi Gras Indians. Last we return to Charleston to examine the African American Gullah-Geechee tradition of communicating with the dead and African ancestors through visions, dreams, stories, sweetgrass basketry, and ecstatic song. We will learn to see the customs, stories, ritual practices, and performances as an expression of the religious imagination, where believers have sought to give aesthetic form to their experiences and re-create the “substance of faith.”

The course presumes no previous experience in religious studies, but it has as a prerequisite the desire to read exotic and challenging materials about different religions, and to engage in conversation about these readings. We will rely on texts that combine travel narrative, storytelling, and religious study, as well as films, songs, and images, to gain insight into the sacred art, stories, music, food, and rituals that inspire faith and create ties that bind communities together. One of the fun things about this course is that we do some “traveling” across the American South through documentaries, films, and the HBO series Treme. You should consider these visual media as “texts,” for their content will be covered on exams.

Course Goals
• to gain knowledge of religions beyond your own experience and develop new ways of hearing, seeing, and sensing what is “sacred” in the American South
• to gain appreciation for the diversity of Southern subcultures and peoples, their shared humanity and creativity, especially among eccentric “outsiders”: artists, storytellers, musicians, performers

Student Learning Outcomes
• students learn to think critically about their own and others’ religious traditions, and analyze how race, class, and gender shape religious and cultural productions
• students demonstrate effective writing skills by crafting an argument in defense of a thesis
• students learn how to make what is strange seem familiar, and what is familiar seem strange

This course also satisfies the two General Education Student Learning Outcomes: 1) Students analyze how ideas are represented, interpreted and valued in various expressions of human culture; and 2) Students examine relevant primary source materials as understood by the discipline and interpret the material in writing assignments. These two Student Learning Outcomes will be assessed on the final exam essay that interprets instances of cultural borrowing in two different visual media (Treme and Daughters of the Dust) and analyzes the religious ideas and practices found therein (for 10% of grade).

There are Four Required Texts that are available at the CofC Barnes & Noble Bookstore:
• S. Brent Plate, A History of Religion in 3½ Objects (2014), $20.00
• Timothy Beal, Roadside Religion (2006), $16.00
• Richard Turner, Jazz Religion, the Second Line, and Black New Orleans (2nd ed. 2017), $25.00
• LeRhonda Manigault-Bryant, Talking to the Dead (2014), $26.95

There are also required Electronic Readings (ER/#1-18), pdf of scholar’s articles and stories available on OAKS for HONS 175, which students can access after they login to MyCharleston--http://my.cofc.edu. Please print out each ER article and bring it to class on the day that it will be discussed.
Course Requirements and Grade Calculations
• Active participation in discussion and regular attendance in class
  Whatever you get out of this course is directly related to how much you put into it. Please come to class with ideas and questions that can help our class engage in meaningful discussion. Attendance records will be kept for each class. There will be 3 allowed absences; 4 or more absences will negatively affect your grade. After 8 absences, you will be dropped from the class and you will earn a WA grade for excessive absences. If you have excused absences (illness, emergency) please contact the Absence Memo Office (67 George Street) to document the reason for your absence. You are responsible for making up any absences; please get any notes on missed lectures from classmates.
• Completion of required reading assignments and weekly Reflection Cards (15% of grade)
  You should read the assignment before we study the topic in class. This will help you understand the lectures and you can participate in class discussions. There will be regular homework assignments. Every Thursday (or day marked on syllabus with RC due) you are to bring to class a thoughtful, written reflection related to the assigned reading for that week. Your reflection should be written on a 3x5 or 5x7 card, and respond to an issue that you have found puzzling, provocative, challenging, disturbing, or fascinating. Grades for RC are: + (= 100); √+ (= 90); √ (= 80); √− (= 75); — (= 70)
• Two short essays of 2 pages each (7.5% each, or 15% of grade)
  Both essays will be written on the assigned reading in response to specific prompts. The essays will require that you analyze the texts closely, formulate an interpretation, and express it concisely in two pages. The essays are due in class on the day when we will discuss it; late papers are not accepted since the topic for the essay will be discussed in class.
• Term paper of 6 pages (20%)
  This paper will be based upon a choice of topics assigned in advance. It’s due in class on 11/21.
• Two quizzes on 10/3 & 11/9 (5% each, for 10%), a Midterm (15%) and Final Exam (25%)
  Quizzes & exams consist of multiple choice and short answer questions, an explanation of important passages excerpted from texts, and essay questions on exams. The final exam is not comprehensive, but deals with the material from the second half of the semester; the essay topic will be given in advance. Review sheets will be provided before hand. If you miss an exam or quiz and provide a documented excuse, I do give makeup tests but they are harder than the original exam.

Academic Integrity and Learning Resources
There is a zero-tolerance policy toward plagiarism or any other form of academic dishonesty in this course. This means that anyone caught taking credit for work that is not his or her own, or cheating in any other way, will receive a failing grade for the course. A student found responsible for academic dishonesty will receive a XF grade, indicating failure of the course due to academic dishonesty.

Students may utilize the Center for Student Learning’s (CSL) academic support services for assistance in study strategies and course content. They offer tutoring, supplemental instruction, and study skills workshops. I encourage you to take advantage of the Writing Lab in the Center for Student Learning (Addlestone Library, first floor). Trained writing consultants can help students develop their writing skills; they offer one-to-one consultations that address everything from brainstorming to identifying and defending a thesis statement. For more, visit http://csl.cofc.edu/labs/writing-lab/

SNAP students: If you have a disability that qualifies you for academic accommodation, please present a letter to me from the Center for Disability Services at the beginning of the semester. For more information on the SNAP program, see: http://disabilityservices.cofc.edu/
Lecture Topics and Reading Schedule

The following abbreviations will be used in listing the required reading: selections from the books like A History of Religion in 5½ Objects or Roadside Religion list the chapters or page numbers; selections from the Electronic Readings (ER#1-18) on OAKS are numbered sequentially. The day that Reflection Cards are due is listed RC# due. For a complete bibliography of ER articles on OAKS, see below p. 6.

Introduction: How Do We Study Religion in the Secular Academy?

8/22 Organization of Course and Introduction to the Academic Study of Religion (Review Course Requirements and this Syllabus in class)

8/24 Ways of Exploring Religion: Who are the Nacirema? (ER#1-3: “Thinking about Being a Student of Religion;” “Body Rituals Among the Nacirema;” and “Religious Studies and Heaven’s Gate”) RC#1 due

8/29 Bringing Religion to its Senses: What is this Religious “Stuff?” (A History of Religion in 5½ Objects, Chapters “½” pp. 1-22 and “Soul” pp. 215-224) RC#2 due

YouTube clip featuring Lynn Hill on the “sacred” sport of bouldering

9/5 Blind Men, Elephants (and their Dung) & the Holy Virgin Mary: Ways of Seeing Religiously (ER#4-6: “Blind Men & the Elephant,” “Interpreting the Sacred”; “Cultural Relativity of Dung”) Essay #1: The parable of the Blind Men and the Elephant is often cited by scholars as a useful way for thinking about the study of religions (e.g. in ER#5). After considering the morals of the story, how is the parable useful for understanding religion? In what way is religion not like an elephant? Apply the parable to ER#6 and explain how the mixed responses to Chris Ofili’s provocative “Holy Virgin Mary” illustrate how we need to adopt multiple perspectives in order to “see religiously” and assess the work’s meaning.

Part I Seeing the Sacred in Southern Evangelical Outsider Art

“Travel is fatal to prejudice, bigotry and narrow-mindedness—all foes to real understanding. Travel has a way of stretching the mind. The stretch comes not from travel’s immediate rewards, the inevitable myriad new sights, smells, and sounds, but with experiencing firsthand how others do differently what we believed to be the right and only way. Likewise, tolerance or broad wholesome charitable views of men and things cannot be acquired by vegetating in our little corner of the earth all one’s lifetime.” Mark Twain

9/7 Surveying the Sacred from Outside: What is “Outsider” Art and Religion? (Roadside Religion: “Introduction” & Chapter 6) RC#3 due

9/14 Seeking the Sacred in the South: Some Sad, Scary, and Mysterious Stories (ER#7: Excerpts from Harry Crews’ A Childhood: The Biography of a Place) RC#4 due

Film: Finish Searching for the Wrong-Eyed Jesus

9/26  Re-Envisioning Howard Finster: The Truth Shall Make You Odd!
(ER#9: “Once Upon a Time: Encountering the Word Made Flesh”)  Essay#2 due:
Howard Finster is America’s most famous self-taught visionary artist, and unlike many other “outsider artists” his life story became well known and his art work was appreciated by many. Explain how Finster’s art and his Paradise Garden illustrate a Bible-based story-shaped world, where nostalgia for the past and fear of the apocalypse are both present. Based on what you’ve read by Timothy Beal and Norman Girardot, is Paradise Garden primarily a place of apocalyptic prophecy or a place of creative healing?
How does Girardot explain the religious and human significance of this strange art?
